SEAN F. McAVOY, CLERK

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
EASTERN DISTRICT OF WASHINGTON

UNITED STATES OF AMERICA,

Plaintiff,

v.

JAMES DEAN CLOUD (01), and
DONOVAN QUINN CARTER
CLOUD (02),

Defendants.

No. 1:19-cr-02032-SMJ-1
1:19-cr-02032-SMJ-2

ORDER GRANTING DEFENDANTS' MOTION FOR INTRADISTRICT TRANSFER

“Given the pervasiveness of modern communications and the difficulty of effacing prejudicial publicity from the minds of the jurors, the trial courts must take strong measures to ensure that the balance is never weighed against the accused.” Sheppard v. Maxwell, 384 U.S. 333, 362-363 (1966). Defendants James Cloud and Donovan Cloud are accused of committing several murders and related crimes. Citing concerns with inflammatory pretrial publicity, Defendants move this Court to order an intradistrict transfer of the upcoming trial in this matter from Yakima, Washington to Spokane, Washington. The Government opposes the motion, primarily arguing that transferring this case will unduly burden the witnesses and victims. While the Court is sympathetic to the Government’s

1 concerns, the Court has a duty to ensure that the jury pool is untainted by high 2 tempers and pre-formed opinions on the Defendants' guilt. The pervasive media 3 coverage on this case has incited a wave of public passion in the Yakima community 4 such that the Court is not sufficiently confident voir dire will minimize the effects 5 of the pretrial publicity. Considering the submitted evidence and the Court's duty 6 to safeguard Defendants' right to a fair trial, the Court finds that it is in the interests 7 of justice to transfer this case to Spokane.

8 BACKGROUND

9 The Court has several times set out the relevant facts in this matter and will 10 not belabor them again here. Briefly, Defendants are charged with crimes related to 11 the 2019 quintuple homicide on the Yakima Nation Reservation—often referred to 12 as the “White Swan” murders. Both Defendants are charged with first degree 13 murder and several other related crimes—including carjacking and kidnapping.
14 ECF No. 242.

15 This case has been described as “the worst homicide in Yakima County’s 16 recent history,”<sup>1</sup> and has generated extensive media coverage primarily 17 concentrated in the Yakima area. See ECF No 431. With trial approaching,

1 Defendants now request an intradistrict transfer to Spokane pursuant to Federal 2 Rule of Criminal Procedure 18, on the ground that prejudicial pretrial publicity has 3 tainted the Yakima jury pool.

4 LEGAL STANDARD

5 Transfer of a criminal case within a single district (an intradistrict transfer) is 6 governed by Federal Rule of Criminal Procedure 18. See United States v.
7 Lipscomb, 299 F.3d 303, 340 (5th Cir. 2002); United States v. Hirst, No. CR 11-8 0157 SBA, 2011 WL 1304269 at *1 (N.D. Cal. Apr. 5, 2011). Under Rule 18, a trial 9 ordinarily must be held “in a district where the offense was committed.” Fed. R.
10 Crim. P. 18. “[T]here is no constitutional or statutory requirement that a defendant’s 11 trial take place in a specific courtroom or division within a federal judicial district.” 12 United States v. Erwin, 155 F.3d 818, 824 (6th Cir. 1998) (emphasis in original); 13 see also United States v. Lipscomb, 299 F.3d 303, 339 (5th Cir. 2002). Rather, “[t]he 14 court shall fix the place of trial within the district with due regard to the convenience 15 of the defendant and the witnesses and the prompt administration of justice.” Fed.
16 R. Crim. P. 18. “Although the text of Rule 18 refers only to considerations of 17 convenience and the prompt administration of justice, the court may also look to 18 other factors such as ‘docket management, courthouse space and security, and . . .
19 pretrial publicity.’” United States v. Mathis, No. 3:14CR00016, 2015 WL 5012159 20 at *3 (W.D. Va. Aug. 21, 2015) (quoting Lipscomb, 299 F.3d at 342).

1 In deciding whether to grant a motion for a Rule 18 transfer, “the trial court 2 has broad discretion.” United States v. Kott, No. 3:07 CR 00056 JWS, 2007 WL 3 2220444 at *2 (D. Alaska Aug. 1, 2007); see also United States v. Scholl, 166 F.3d 4 964, 969 (9th Cir. 1999) (reviewing intradistrict transfer for abuse of discretion).

5 DISCUSSION

6 A. Defendants have shown that an intradistrict transfer to Spokane is 7 warranted in this case

8 Defendants argue that the pretrial publicity this case has generated is so 9 inflammatory that the interests of justice mandate transferring this case from 10 Yakima to Spokane. See generally ECF No. 432. The Government counters that a 11 transfer will present an undue hardship for victims and witnesses and urges that 12 Defendants have not met their burden to show intradistrict transfer is warranted in 13 this case. See generally ECF No. 453. Having considered the parties’ arguments 14 and submitted evidence, the Court agrees with Defendants and finds that 15 transferring this matter to Spokane will best facilitate the Court’s ability to seat an 16 impartial jury untainted by pretrial publicity.

17 Unsurprisingly, the pretrial publicity on this matter has been pervasive. This 18 is the largest murder case in Yakima’s recent history and has generated hundreds of 19 articles and TV spots. To wit, Defendants have submitted 124 pages of Yakima 20 newspaper articles on this case, the dates of which range from 2019 to 2021. The Court is hard pressed to think of another case in this district that has generated

1 nearly as much media coverage as this case.

2 But the volume of media coverage is not the Court’s primary concern. The 3 larger problem is the content of the coverage. The Government contends the articles 4 submitted by Defendants “simply confirm[] that the Defendants were charged in the 5 instant offense and provide basic facts.” ECF No. 453 at 12. The Court disagrees 6 with this global characterization of the media coverage on this case. Having 7 thoroughly reviewed the submitted articles, the Court finds that several of them
8 contain highly prejudicial content. For example, a February 2020 article published 9 by KIMA-TV (a CBS-affiliate in Yakima) headlines “Clouds finally charged in 10 White Swan mass murder.”<sup>2</sup> Another article describes James Cloud as having been 11 “captured” and noted that he was “considered armed and extremely dangerous.”<sup>3</sup> 12 Taken together, the articles are replete with the Defendants’ purported involvement 13 in the murders and other crimes—and many of them describe the alleged conduct 14 with specificity.

15 More troubling to the Court is that several articles document inadmissible

1 facts and allegations. See Ainsworth v. Calderon, 138 F.3d 787, 795 (9th Cir. 1998)
2 (courts may properly consider whether media accounts contain prejudicial 3 information that is not admissible at trial). A review of the submitted articles reveals 4 a number of media accounts speculating that the Defendants may have been 5 involved in the separate, uncharged deaths of two California men traveling to a 6 concert at the Gorge Amphitheatre in Grant County, Washington.<sup>4</sup> Speculation 7 about the Defendants’ involvement in these deaths spread on social media 8 platforms—including a Facebook page created by a mother of one of the victims.
9 One of the posts on the page alleges that bullet casings related to the deaths of the 10 concertgoers “matched bullet casings found at the White Swan murders.” ECF No.
11 431-5 at 59. This speculation gained traction in the Yakima community, resulting 12 in a string of media accounts reporting that the deaths of the California men may be 13 linked to this case. ECF No. 431-5. At this juncture, the Court considers any 14 evidence linking Defendants to the deaths inadmissible, as the Government has 15 advised it does not anticipate a fourth superseding indictment in this matter. See 16 ECF No. 317 at 2.

17 Additionally, several media outlets have published articles documenting the 18 Defendants’ prior criminal convictions—which the Court has already excluded. Id.

19 _____
20 <sup>4</sup> See, e.g., Emily Goodell, Prosecutors Say Brothers May Have Killed 7 People, YAKTRINEWS (Oct. 27, 2020 7:09 P.M.), <https://www.yaktrinews.com/brothers-may-have-killed-7-people-on-the-yakama-reservation-prosecutors-say/>.

1 One article describes, with specificity, two of James Cloud’s prior convictions in 2 2002 and 2008, and notes that there were “a dozen cases filed against Cloud in 3 Yakima County Superior Court from 1997 to 2006—nine of which resulted in a 4 conviction.”<sup>5</sup> Similar coverage was also published on Twitter. See ECF No. 431-6 5 at 46 (tweet posted by KAPP-KVEW reporting “Cloud has been arrested and 6 charged with a crime at least 21 times in the past two decades”). And at least one 7 Yakima media account has published Donovan Cloud’s criminal history, reporting 8 his “2013 convictions of first-degree robbery, theft of a firearm, burglary and a 2006 9 conviction of assault with a deadly weapon.”<sup>6</sup> These reports place Defendants “in a 10 negative light on the basis of [their] past life or events not intrinsic to the crime 11 charged.” United States v. Joyce, No. CR. 07-31 ERIE, 2008 WL 2367307 at *4 12 (W.D. Pa. June 10, 2008).

13 The Court also considers the polling data submitted by Defendants. In 14 October 2021, Defendant James Cloud hired Dr. Bryan Edelman, a social 15 psychologist who specializes in venue analysis, to perform a telephonic survey and 16 measure this case’s recognition in three areas: Yakima, Richland, and Spokane.

1 ECF No. 431-1. Dr. Edelman placed 9,166 calls to persons in the Yakima area, 2 7,964 calls to persons in the Richland area, and 8,011 calls to persons in the Spokane
3 area. Id. at 77. Two-hundred persons in each area engaged in interviews, for a total 4 of 600 interview respondents. Id.

5 In the Yakima area, 55 percent of the respondents recognized this case. Id. at 6 6. Meanwhile, only 20 percent of Spokane-area respondents recognized this case.
7 Id. More concerning to the Court than case recognition are the results on the 8 respondents' apparent readiness to convict the Defendants before trial has even 9 started. For the respondents who recognized the case, Dr. Edelman followed up by 10 asking:

11 "Given what you have read, seen, or heard about this shooting, would 12 James and Donovan Cloud have a difficult time convincing you that they are not—repeat is not—guilty of murder?"

13 Id. at 7. Of the 110 persons in the Yakima area and the 20 persons in the Spokane 14 area who recognized this case, 61 and 4 of them, respectively, answered "Yes." Id.
15 In other words, over half of the respondents in the Yakima area who recognized this 16 case stated a bias against the Defendants. But the Court notes that as framed, the 17 survey question impermissibly shifts the burden of proof from the Government to 18 the Defendants.

19 While these results are concerning, the Court gives them minimal weight. See 20 Shapiro v. Kauffman, 855 F.2d 620, 621 (8th Cir. 1988) ("Public opinion polls

1 introduced with the purpose of demonstrating jury bias have found little favor with 2 the courts.”). The Court credits the Government’s contention that the persons 3 interviewed may not constitute a representative sample of the jury pool in the 4 Yakima area. See ECF No. 453 at 6–7. Nonetheless, even giving the survey results 5 little weight, they tend to show some predisposition to convict that the Court must 6 take measures to minimize.

7 Finally, the Court considers the documented public opinions on this case and 8 the impact of the news coverage on potential jurors. Defendants have submitted a 9 string of inflammatory online comments posted by persons presumably located in 10 or near Yakima. The Court deems it unnecessary to recount the specific comments, 11 but suffice it to say they are lamentable. The comments are vitriolic, violent, and 12 reflect formed opinions on the Defendants’ guilt. While the Court cannot readily 13 determine that the commenters are located in Yakima, the Court presumes a 14 significant portion are, given that the large majority of media coverage on this case 15 has been concentrated in the Yakima area.

16 B. The Government’s contentions

17 The Government’s opposition to Defendant’s motion might prevail were this 18 a question of whether venue should be transferred to another district. But the 19 question presently before the Court is whether this case should be transferred to 20 another division within this district—a less burdensome standard.

1 As an initial matter, the Court recognizes that most victims and witnesses in 2 this case are from Yakima. ECF No. 453 at 3. The Court is sympathetic to any 3 inconvenience that transferring this case to Spokane will cause for these individuals.
4 The Court further recognizes the burden on the involved law enforcement agencies, 5 particularly those that are already short-staffed. While Spokane will be a less-6 convenient commute for the victims and witnesses, it is not such a distant forum 7 that the commutes will be onerous. With these concerns in mind, Court is convinced 8 that any inconvenience is outweighed by the effects of the pretrial publicity—which 9 militate in favor of transferring this matter to Spokane.

10 The Government further contends that Defendants overstate the threat 11 imposed by the new reports on this matter. See ECF No. 453 at 10–12. Specifically, 12 the Government notes that the number of news reports have dissipated considerably 13 over the past two years. Id. at 12. True, but the effects of prejudicial media coverage 14 are not simply erased with the passage of time. Moreover, the Court anticipates a 15 resurgence of coverage as the trial draws near. The Court also declines to credit the 16 Government’s suggestion that the media coverage is not prejudicial because no 17 article states that Defendants have confessed to the crimes or are guilty of them. See 18 id. But the absence of false reporting or overt opining on the Defendants’ guilt does 19 not make the coverage, as a whole, non-prejudicial.

20 Finally, the Court is unpersuaded that voir dire will combat the publicity

1 concerns described above. While the Court generally believes in the ability of this 2 division's citizens to remain impartial and adhere to Court instructions, it is not 3 willing to take an unnecessary risk in this case, where a forum within the same 4 district is available. This case is not the average criminal matter; Defendants are 5 accused of a multiple murders and other highly publicized conduct and face 6 significant penalties if they are convicted. The Court will conduct voir dire as it 7 typically does, and will transfer this case to Spokane as an additional precaution to 8 ensure a fair and impartial trial.

9 CONCLUSION

10 Undoubtedly, the Yakima community is an especially receptive audience to 11 the extensive media coverage on the largest murder case in Yakima's recent history.
12 In view of the volume and content of the media coverage on this matter, and the 13 publicly stated opinions on Defendants' guilt, the Court is concerned that the 14 Yakima jury pool has been tainted by inflammatory pretrial publicity.

15 While Spokane is not so distant as to overly burden the victims and witnesses 16 in this case, Spokane is far enough that the Court is confident that prospective jurors 17 will be less likely to have formed opinions on the Defendants' guilt. In 18 consideration of fairness and the Court's duty to seat an untainted jury, the Court, 19 in its discretion, hereby transfers the trial in this matter to Spokane, Washington.
